Authorization for Pre Anesthetic Blood Evaluation

To identify any problem areas before anesthesia, we recommend pre-anesthetic screening tests on all animals, especially for those 7 years and older. These tests are not exhaustive or complete, but give us information on body systems. Specifically, the test (PCV, WBC, ALT, Glucose, Creatinine and BUN) screen for liver and kidney disease. Other tests may be indicated for individual animals.

The fee for this evaluation is $61.25

Authorization for Dental Radiographs

In order to provide the best dental care for your animals, dental radiology is now available. After your animals teeth are cleaned they will be examined by the doctor. If there is a damaged tooth, a dental x-ray may be necessary to determine if the tooth should be extracted.

Unless otherwise requested, the doctor will perform extractions and/or take radiographs as needed.

The fee for radiographs is $24.25 per radiograph.

_____ Initial if doctor should call before taking radiographs or perform extractions.

Additional Services

All patients undergoing major inhalant anesthetic surgeries are monitored by a technician using a heart and respiratory monitor.

When your pet is under an anesthetic we take this opportunity to trim nails, express anal glands (dogs only) and examine the ears and the teeth at no charge.
